Financial professionals are constantly handling a variety of sensitive documents in large volumes, and with the constant influx of new regulations, the need for quality record-keeping is now greater than ever. Whether you’re handling invoices, tax documents, loan applications, or anything in-between, having an HP dedicated scanner promotes efficiency, saves time, reduces storage costs, and simplifies record-keeping so that you can deliver the best possible service without interruption.

Identifying potential customers and starting the conversation

Anna
Office manager

- What does she scan?
  Mostly A4 documents, checks, reports, documents with handwritten notes, and bank statements
- How often?
  4–6 times a week, about 4–5 pages at a time
- What features matter to her?
  Scan quality, two-sided scanning, light weight, range of supported formats, OCR, cancel button on the front, auto-orient/rotate, and the ability to merge pages in duplex scanning
- Why does she want a dedicated scanner?
  “I accumulate so many things that I need to scan. Since I am trying to get rid of paper, a scanner helps me keep things organised.”

Purchasers spotlight
- Who they are: IT directors, executive assistants, business owners
- What influences their purchase decision: Employee needs, blogs, online reviews, video demos, manufacturer websites
- What features matter to them: Colour scanning, duty cycle, speed, range of supported document sizes, TWAIN, ease of use, security, ADF capacity, small footprint

Qualifying questions
- What will you be scanning? How often? How many pages?
- How fast would you like the scanner to scan pages?
- Where will this scanner be located? On a desktop? Or in a central area?
- What will you do with the scans? Where will they go?
